

Will Sen. Bill Nelson listen to Ted Kennedy or the people of Florida?

It's no secret that Sen. Ted Kennedy's political and social values are vastly more left wing than those of mainstream America. So, it's no surprise when Ted Kennedy and his cronies attack Judge Samuel Alito. After all, they have depended on the courts for years to do their dirty work: removing God from the Pledge of Allegiance, redefining marriage, even allowing private property to be confiscated by developers in order to "increase the tax base."

But, like most Floridians, Judge Samuel Alito, the most highly qualified Supreme Court nominee in 70 years, believes such judicial activism is outside the scope of the Constitution. He has stated openly that judges should interpret the law and apply the Constitution, not rewrite the laws to suit their social agenda. The difference between Judge Alito and liberal jurists is the difference between constitutional common sense and political nonsense.

That's why Ted Kennedy and the usual crowd of liberals have targeted Judge Alito for defeat — and are pressuring their fellow senators to make that happen.

So, which will it be, Senator Nelson: Massachusetts values or Florida values?
